NATP announces new partnership with Tax Help Software

Tax Help Software analyzes IRS transcript data for opportunities and issues in clients' tax returns

APPLETON, Wis. (Sept. 16, 2021) – The National Association of Tax Professionals (NATP) recently partnered with Tax Help Software to offer its members more resources to help them serve their clients with excellence during tax season and beyond.

Tax Help Software (THS) is the original program that requests, downloads and analyzes the IRS transcript data to find opportunities and issues with taxpayers' returns. The program currently interfaces with IRS e-Services and can download more than 25,000 transcripts per hour.

NATP is the leading association for tax professionals in the country that provides its members with resources, education and support to aid in their professional success. NATP has three membership levels, which allows tax professionals to better customize their NATP experience based on what they need from membership.

“Assisting tax professionals around the country in providing excellent service to their hardworking U.S. taxpaying clients is at NATP’s core, and we believe Tax Help Software can be a great tool to help tax professionals respond to IRS notices through its innovative software that is easy to use and provides results,” said NATP Executive Director Scott Artman, CPA, CGMA.

NATP and THS are celebrating the new partnership by offering NATP members a special rate for six months of the Executive License service. To learn more about NATP or how to join, visit natptax.com.
